These friends are good at answering tough questions.
Like where do you see yourself in five years?

When you study together and compete together, you can't help but make friends. And that's exactly what Honda had in mind when creating the Honda Campus All-Star Challenge. Over the past 22 years, Honda has contributed over $6 million to the program, welcoming teams from the nation's Historically Black Colleges and Universities for a meeting of the minds. The winning team takes home a $50,000 grant, and Honda annually awards all participating schools over $315,000 combined. Valuable networking opportunities are provided as well, and to date, 75,000 students have participated in HCASC. Many have gone on to careers in medicine, aeronautics and other industries. After all, friendships like these keep on growing long after the scrapbook is full.
